MOVE TITANIUM
FOR MEN

JUNE 2016

*«It was thinking about the men around me that inspired me to create Move Titanium.
Forging a bond between men and women's jewellery was a real challenge.
I have created a masculine interpretation of my iconic collection Move, which combines both power and lightness. The motif of the three moving diamonds is deeply imprinted in me and lies very close to my heart. Move: a single collection designed for men and women, a perfect union. »*

TRILOGY

Valérie Messika wanted to combine jewellery with masculine style for 2016. What could be more natural than turning to her signature collection Move in order to explore this masculinity in her designs? As robust as the Titanium materials used to create them, the bangles and rings in the Move Titanium collection reflect men's many different dimensions thanks to the clear juxtaposition between brushed matte and reflective polished finishes. Valerie has interpreted the looks of 3 types of men using 3 exclusive finishes, combining power with lightness. Valerie has created an element of surprise by uniting these natural, anthracite and black versions with different diamonds: black for the Intrepid and white for the Original and the Dandy. Remaining faithful to her lucky number, Valerie has paid tribute to the 'love of yesterday, today and tomorrow' with three moving diamonds that can never be separated, glistening with power in their titanium cage. Three men, three finishes and three colours are brought together in six comfortable and robust pieces that send a modern and powerful statement.
